State Budget Proposal Offers New Initiatives

The administration’s initial housing proposals are perhaps the most aggressive and comprehensive that most of us have seen in our careers. This Executive proposal provides a great basis for negotiating the budget, but as we all know, the legislature, too, will weigh in with changes over the next several months.

Governor Cuomo’s five year fiscal plans have repeatedly included funding for rural and neighborhood preservation companies using excess funds from the Mortgage Insurance Fund (MIF). This year the Governor has continued that commitment by proposing $3,539,000 for RPCs and $8,479,000 for NPCs which would fund all groups at around $60,000.

In addition, the Governor would use $20,259,000 of $439,549,965 in JP Morgan/Chase settlement funds to support rural and neighborhood preservation program activities. There are no details as to how these funds will be awarded but if used over two years they represent a 50% increase in RPP/NPP funding.

The Rural and Urban Communities Fund Program, created during the last legislative session and included in the Governor’s five year plan is proposed to receive $17 million from the MIF with approximately $6.8 million of that amount going to projects in rural areas.

In the Capital Programs budget, which is largely supported with the State’s bonding authority, the Governor is proposing to fund the NYS Housing Trust Fund at $40,200,000 as in last year’s capital budget. In addition the Governor proposes adding $7.5 million to HTF from settlement funds for a total HTF budget of $47,700,000. In keeping with previous commitments, the Governor would invest $42 million in Mitchell Lama rehab funding and would invest $8.5 million in Homes for Working Families from the Mortgage Insurance Fund and another $9 million from the bonded capital account for a total of $17.5 million.

The Affordable Housing Corporation Program (AHC) is proposed to receive $29 million in capital funds an increase of $4 million over historic funding levels for the program. In addition, the Governor proposes using $21,689,965 for a neighborhood revitalization purchase program that will be run by SONYMA.

ACCESS to Home is proposed to receive $1,000,000 from the general fund and as much as $19,601,000 in funding from the JP Morgan Chase Settlement.

RESTORE is proposed to receive $1.4 million from the general fund with an additional $5 million over two years coming from settlement funds. If the program receives another $1.4 million next year we will see a total of $7.8 million over two years.

The NY Main Street Program is proposed to receive $4,200,000 from the general fund. Other community development funding includes a proposed $50 million to fund Restore New York and $15 million for the NYS CDFI Fund.

Trust Fund Final Rule Clears Hurdle

On January 21st, the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs at the Office of Management and Budget completed its review of the final National Housing Trust Fund regulations. The rule is now back at HUD, awaiting publication.

The same day the final rule is published in the Federal Register, HUD must submit a copy to the Senate and the House of Representatives. Congress may review the rule and may consider and pass legislation to overturn the rule, which the President may sign or veto. Such adverse action by Congress is extremely rare. Assuming the final NHTF rule clears any Congressional objections, the rule should take effect 60 days after publication.

Energy Efficiency Loans Available

Citizens Bank is promoting their energy efficiency and EZ home improvement loan products. The loans offer an attractive interest rate, no lien, and a small monthly payment. In the absence of other grant funding for energy improvements, bank loan financing may be a suitable option for families needing to make critical energy or other repairs. To obtain brochures for these Citizen products, contact Lisa Polsinello at lisa.k.polsinello@citizensbank.com.

Annual Appeal Announced

The 2015 Rural Housing Coalition Annual Appeal is underway. Look for your appeal letter in the mail, or visit our website at www.ruralhousing.org to make a secure donation online. With the new housing resources proposed in the Governor’s budget, and the need to continue to build community development capacity in rural communities, this is an important time to ensure that the Coalition remains strong. Thank you so much for any support you can provide.

Federal and U.S. military employees can support the Rural Housing Coalition through the annual Combined Federal Campaign (CFC). If you are a federal government or military employee and would like to donate through the CFC, please enter CFC code #9614 on your pledge card during the next fund drive.
Half-way through the 2014-15 program year at the Rural Housing Coalition, we thought it would be useful to update you on the progress we have made in helping local housing agencies, municipalities, and the lending community, to make rural New York a better, more vibrant place to live and work.

- Training: The Coalition views building capacity of the local network of community development and housing agencies, and municipalities to be key to the cost effective utilization of state and federal grant funding for improving the quality of life in rural New York. Often, capacity building takes the form of training activities. Our annual conference is our hallmark training event each year, and last September we brought the conference to a new site in Oswego, NY, and were pleased with a slight uptick in attendance over recent years past. Following the conference, we immediately began working on other trainings to be held in the second half of the year. Keep your eye out for promotional materials announcing those events.

- Partnerships: We are always looking for new opportunities to share ideas and strategies with other organizations in the hopes that we might be able to bring new resources to rural New York. As an example, we recently had the opportunity to discuss with representatives of the financial industry the dilemma faced by some rural communities when they lose the local branch of a bank. We emphasized that not all communities in rural New York are adequately served by broadband internet connectivity, discounting the argument of many financial institutions that their branch-closing activities do not create a hardship for these communities ‘because customers can always do their banking online’.

- Homeless Housing: When people think of the homeless, rarely is it ever envisaged in a rural setting. Typically, the homeless are pictured wandering through urban neighborhoods, sleeping on steam grates or park benches. Rural homelessness often plays out differently, and may include families doubled up with relatives, living in cars, or tent camping in a state park; or homeless teenagers couch surfing at the homes of their friends. The Coalition is pleased to have a solid working relationship with the staff of the Homeless Housing and Assistance Program of the Office of Temporary and Disability Assistance. HHAP frequently calls upon the Coalition to conduct periodic monitoring of permanent housing and shelters financed through the HHAP program, checking to make sure that residents meet the statutory definition for occupancy in the projects, in addition to inspecting the properties to make sure they are being kept in good repair. The Coalition has also been working with several nonprofit agencies to develop financing plans for new homeless units in far-reaching locations across the state. In both cases, these projects involve the adaptive re-use of existing older structures to provide new residential services.

- Program Compliance: One of the significant challenges facing New York State grantees is to meet the MWBE goal of 20% of contract funds. This goal will become an even larger challenge in April of 2015, when the MBWE utilization goal will increase to 30%. Rural program administrators and developers have found it particularly difficult to attract minorities and women to submit bids on state-funded activities, mainly due to the distance of project activities from the state’s larger population centers. These program administrators continue to have difficulty getting local MWBE businesses to complete the certification process, so that existing business relationships can be counted towards the Governor’s 30% goal. In response to these concerns, Coalition staff have been working with state staff on developing training on how to meet this challenge. Staff have also been researching methods of more effectively utilizing the state database, and are exploring other opportunities to improve compliance with this requirement.

- Advocacy: The Rural Housing Coalition has a longstanding cooperative relationship with the New York Rural Advocates to educate policy makers on the impacts of existing state investments in community revitalization and affordable housing. Coalition staff have been vocal about the need to direct at least a portion of the recently-award ed bank settlement funding to housing and community development activities, to counteract the negative results of activities of the financial industry over the past 5+ years. Our philosophy

Exit Conference
Webinars Slated
The Office of Community Renewal’s program staff will conduct webinar presentations to provide feedback and guidance for unsuccessful 2014 applicants. The presentations will review common deficiencies in applications and trends in successful applications. These presentations will provide prior applicants and future applicants with tips and suggestions for submitting future applications for funding through upcoming Regional Economic Development Council Consolidated Funding Application (CFA) rounds.

To prepare to participate in these webinars, thoroughly review the application(s) and attachments submitted by your community or organization and submit questions to OCRexitconference@nyshcr.org for inclusion in webinar presentation.

- New York Main Street (NYMS) Program Exit Conference Webinar, will be on Thursday, February 4th, at 10:00 AM. The registration link is found at: https://meetny.webex.com/meetny/onstage/g.php?d=316154738&t=a.

Rapid Rehousing Programs
Based on the success of the HPRP Recovery Program, homeless programs have incorporated a rapid rehousing model as an option for persons or families who are experiencing homelessness but can be quickly rehoused and stabilized and are likely to remain stably housed after temporary assistance is provided. The program allows for using a combination of rental assistance and supportive services. Model programs can be funded with Emergency Shelter Grant and Continuum of Care funds to address needs in your communities.

Julie Steiner of Abt Associates will lead the call, which will:
- have a conversation about how the program differs from transitional or other permanent housing
- learn about models that are working
- hear from organizations about how the program is going since they’ve started
- share ideas & questions

The Governor is proposing again this year to fund the Homeless Housing and Assistance Program at $63,000,000 with $5,000,000 of that amount set aside for HIV/AIDS housing. In addition to HHAP, the Governor would use $27 million in settlement funds for rental assistance for HIV/AIDS households and another $16.3 million for similar purposes, $40 million would go to NYC Homeless programs.

Additional programming proposed from the JP Morgan Chase settlement includes $116 million to fund a statewide, multiagency supportive housing program to provide housing and support services for vulnerable New Yorkers including but not limited to seniors, veterans, victims of domestic violence, formerly incarcerated individuals and homeless individuals with co-presenting health conditions. Also included is a construction program to finance low and moderate income housing developments targeted to up to 130% of area median which will receive $50 million. Also under consideration is a program to rehabilitate existing Article 11 housing development fund company projects. That program will also be allocated $50 million.

Altogether, the JP Morgan Chase settlement funds, as proposed would support $439,549,965 in affordable housing programming, an increase of over $127 million from the appropriation last year. Rural Advocates will convene in Albany on March 2nd and 3rd to work with the legislature to ensure that quality housing initiatives are in the adopted budget.

If You’re Not Lead-Safe Certified, Lead Paint Could Cost You Big Time.

Think lead paint doesn’t affect your business? Think again.

An Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) rule to protect children from lead exposure mandates that all renovation and repair contractors working in pre-1978 homes, schools, and day care centers who disrupt more than six square feet of lead paint are required to become EPA Certified in lead-safe work practices. Renovation contractors are required to take a one-day training course and firms must send a short application to the EPA. If not, they could face thousands of dollars in fines, and – even worst – be responsible for harming their customers.

Research shows that renovation contractors like carpenters, plumbers, electricians, painters and window replacement experts can inadvertently expose children to harmful levels of lead from invisible dust disturbed during jobs they perform every day.

Renovation contracting firms must register with the EPA and pay a fee to become an EPA Lead-Safe Certified firm. In addition, individual renovation contractors that will be doing the work or repairs must take a one-day training course from an EPA-accredited training provider to become a certified renovator. EPA certification for both firms and individuals is good for five years. Re-certification will be required beginning in early 2015 for many renovation firms and individual renovators.

“Getting lead-safe certified is the right thing to do for renovation contractors, their customers, and their employees, and especially for children who spend time in or near spaces that are being renovated,” said Jim Jones, Assistant Administrator of the EPA’s Office of Chemical Safety and Pollution Prevention.

The rule is designed to provide significant benefits, in particular to children’s health and learning potential, yet the EPA is mindful of the relatively small added costs that may result from complying with this important rule. The EPA maintains its consumer campaign designed to raise awareness of the dangers of lead paint poisoning, and to encourage consumers to choose to hire only renovation contractors who are trained and possess the Lead-Safe Certified logo, which contains a firm-specific number.

For additional information including how your firm or your contractors can get Lead-Safe Certified and where to find an EPA-accredited trainee trainer in your area, visit epa.gov/getleadsafe or call (800) 424-LEAD today.

Federal Budget Q&A

that New York already has a variety of effective grant programs that can efficiently get this funding into the ground, if only the legislature chooses to allocate some of the available surplus to rural community development needs. The State’s current surplus represents the largest opportunity for making a significant dent in the problems of rural communities that we have seen in the history of the Coalition, and it is imperative that everyone is well-positioned to utilize these once-in-a-lifetime resources.

- Technical Assistance: Again, the Coalition works diligently to build capacity in rural communities throughout the state to ensure that local agencies have the wherewithal to use available resources strategically to fix the problems with the housing stock, to build opportunity for lower income families to achieve the American dream, and for local economies to recover from the recession and participate in the growing national movement to shop local. To this end, we have worked one-on-one with municipalities and nonprofits to design programs and project activities that will increase the availability of affordable rental housing for families; that preserve the existing housing stock from decline and inevitable demolition; and that create innovative combinations of mortgage financing that make it possible for families to purchase their first home. A recurring part of our technical assistance services during the first half of this year has been working with non-profit merger and collaboration arrangements to prevent the loss of housing services due to the impending dissolution of struggling nonprofits. We have been able in some cases to bring together suitable partnerships between agencies and have provided follow-up services to address underlying problems as the collaborations mature. Of course, we also stand ready to assist our members in reviewing documents such as grant proposals, with suggestions for edits, to ensure that submissions or publications are the highest quality possible.

- Consulting: The Coalition staff are available as consultants for a variety of different activities. Most of our consulting energy in the past 6 months has been devoted to work outside of New York, as subcontractors to the Housing Assistance Council in Washington, DC. This contract allows us to continue to utilize our staff expertise and certifications in working on behalf of HUD to improve local programs. These assignments also give us the opportunity to learn about alternative approaches to housing program delivery outside of New York.

Interim Rule Published For Housing Trust Fund

HUD announced on January 30th that an Interim Rule for the administration of the National Housing Trust Fund has been published. The purpose of the HTF is to provide grants to State governments to increase and preserve the supply of rental housing for extremely low- and very low-income families, including homeless families, and to increase homeownership for extremely low- and very low-income families. Visit the Federal Register website at www.federalregister.gov/articles/2015/01/30/2015-01642/housing-trust-fund to review the rule.
Brownfield Funding Resources Training

Learn how and where to obtain funding and manage projects to redevelop previously-used sites, including brownfields, into housing, parks, trails, and job-creating businesses. This free, half-day workshop is designed for local governments, economic and community development departments, councils of government, nonprofits, and any other organizations interested in sustainable development. The workshop brings together each of the major providers of funding for environmentally-challenged properties to discuss eligibility requirements, application procedures, and best practices.

Federal and state experts and seasoned brownfield redevelopment practitioners will be on-hand to discuss leveraging and layering state and federal funding sources, and to give you the advice you need to move your project forward.

This free training is scheduled for Wednesday, March 18th, from 1:00 - 5:00 PM, at the Staybridge Suites, 1000 Genesee Street, Rochester, NY 14611.

The workshop is expected to fill quickly, so early registration is recommended. To register, visit http://cclr.org/civicrm/event/register?id=163&reset=1.

HUD Creates HOME Final Rule Applicability Chart

HUD has published a series of checklists which summarize the changes and clarifications contained in the new HOME Final Rule, and clarify the applicability of these requirements to Participating Jurisdictions’ (PJs’) existing and/or new HOME projects. The final rule on which these checklists are based follows the 2013 changes in the HOME Program. These checklists are intended to make it easier to understand the various changes and their applicability.

The provisions have been classified into one of three separate categories, based on the type and applicability of the requirements, including clarification of existing requirements; new project requirements; and new PJ program requirements.

To access the charts, visit the HUD Exchange website at: www.hudexchange.info/home/home-final-rule/requirements-applicability-charts/?utm_source=HUD+Exchange+Mailing+List&utm_campaign=d9232feac3-2013+HOME+Final+Rule+Applicability+Charts&utm_medium=email&utm_term=0_f32b935a5f-d9232feac3-18458393.
