The Tax Policy Center (TPC) has released its most recent analysis of the United for Homes (UFH) proposal to reform the mortgage interest deduction (MID). Commissioned by the National Low Income Housing Coalition, the report shows the impact on revenue from federal income taxes if changes to the MID as proposed by UFH were enacted. An additional $213 billion would be generated over ten years if the two elements of the reform proposal were enacted. They are: lowering the cap on the amount of mortgage debt on which the interest can be deducted from the current $1 million to $500,000, and converting the current deduction to a 15% non-refundable tax credit. Simply lowering the cap to $500,000 would generate $95 billion over ten years. Both of these figures assume the changes would be phased in over five years.

NLIHC has previously reported that only 5% of all mortgages made in the US in the years 2012, 2013, and 2014 were above $500,000 and they are concentrated in a fraction of US counties.

The TPC report also shows how the change to a 15% non-refundable tax credit would alter the distribution of mortgage interest tax breaks by income. While 34% of all taxpayers pay mortgage interest, only 58% of taxpayers who pay mortgage interest take the mortgage interest deduction now. Under the UFH proposal, 82% of taxpayers who pay mortgage interest would get the mortgage interest tax credit, almost 15 million more homeowners with mortgages than get a tax break now.

The figure below illustrates this distribution by income group, clearly showing the increased benefit to lower income homeowners from the conversion from a tax deduction to a tax credit. The UFH campaign proposes to use savings generated by MID reform to fund the National Housing Trust Fund and other housing assistance that benefits extremely low income households. HUD Report On Service Coordinators Issued

HUD has issued a report on the beneficial impacts of Service Coordinators in rural senior housing complexes. The report suggests that a 5-year demonstration would be ideal, and that the demonstration be focused on not just outcomes but trying to understand the best interventions or models for rural areas that can be replicated. The Big Short

Your editor took in the film The Big Short the day after Christmas. Many of our readers are intimately aware of the impacts of the continuing foreclosure crisis. This new movie does a pretty good job of explaining how our housing market went off the cliff in the first place. Be warned- there’s some nudity, and plenty of impolite language in this film. But the scene with Selena Gomez explaining credit default swaps is easily worth the price of the ticket.

Federal and U.S. military employees can support the Rural Housing Coalition through the annual Combined Federal Campaign (CFC). If you are a federal government or military employee and would like to donate through the CFC, please enter CFC code #9614 on your pledge card during the next fund drive.

Governor Announces $23 Million In Housing Awards

On December 17th, Governor Cuomo announced nearly $23 million in housing grants to municipalities and non-profits across the state. Funding under the CDBG, AHC, Access to Home, Access to Home Veterans, Access to Home MRT, and RESTORE programs was announced.

Of the 24 CDBG grants awarded, 18 were for housing rehabilitation activities. Yates County was awarded a well and septic program. Rensselaer, Clinton, Lewis, Ulster, and Tompkins Counties were awarded programs for First Time Home Buyers. Allegany County and the Town of Ellington received CDBG funds for manufactured home replacement programs. Many of the housing rehabilitation grants in this round were awarded at the $500,000 level.

A total of 24 RESTORE awards were announced. Almost half of the grant awards received $150,000, significantly above awards in earlier years of the RESTORE program’s history. Two additional grants were awarded at $100,000.

Five AHC grants were awarded, including a variety of activities, such as a vacant building rehabilitation program in Syracuse, employer-assisted housing in Nassau and Suffolk Counties, and a continuation of a purchase and rehab program in Chenango County. Only one of the grants announced was for a home improvement program.

Twelve grants were announced under the new Access to Home program for Veterans. All of these programs were awarded $150,000. Winners included two CAP agencies, an independent living center, a county government, and five Preservation Companies. One Preservation Company received three grants for work in three different counties. There were also 10 additional Access awards under the Medicaid Redesign Team initiative. All but 2 of the MRT awards received $150,000 per grant, as well. Six grant awards were made under the original Access to Home program, all at $150,000. Half of those awards went to Preservation Companies.

PathStone’s Role in Manufactured Homes In Rural Upstate NY

PathStone Corporation has taken a multifaceted program approach to help meet some of the housing needs of residents of mobile and manufactured homes in New York State. PathStone employees bring much needed energy conservation improvements to owners and residents of manufactured homes through Weatherization Assistance and the NYSERDA Green Jobs/Green New York programs. These programs use BPI-certified energy auditors to conduct energy audits on manufactured homes. Repairs indicated in the audit are made at no or reduced cost to the homeowners.

PathStone has recently completed a program to replace dilapidated mobile homes with new Energy Star program manufactured homes. In addition, PathStone’s manufactured home cooperative program helps residents of manufactured home parks form a resident corporation and buy their communities from the investor-owner.

Elizabeth Crittenden of Genesee County, NY, is the mother of two young children working as a banquet waitress at a local hotel. For years, Ms. Crittenden lived with her two pre-school daughters in a dilapidated 1972 mobile home. Ms. Crittenden purchased the home at a county tax auction with borrowed money. It was the only place she could afford to live and still stay in her community. Despite Ms. Crittenden’s best efforts, her home was falling down around her. The exterior walls/siding consisted of 4’x8’ simulated wood paneling that was disintegrating and pulling away from the framing. You could actually reach inside the walls from the outside. The furnace was inoperable -- the home was heated only by a wood stove. An addition on the south end of the home was uninhabitable. PathStone was able to replace the old home with a new Energy Star program manufactured home.

The new home is on a permanent foundation and provides a safe, affordable and comfortable place for Ms. Crittenden to raise her family.

The difference between the old and new homes was literally life changing. During the winter months, Ms. Crittenden used to spend most of her free hours feeding the wood stove and still had no running water due to frozen pipes. Both the water and septic lines would freeze during cold snaps. When spring finally arrived, a dirt driveway and no sidewalk meant mud and dirt was everywhere, inside and out. It was impossible to keep the house clean.

Weekends were spent trying to maintain the home. The parts that needed replacement in the mobile home were no longer available. The home was literally falling down around the family and there was nothing they could do to prevent it.

The new home was a godsend. Central heat meant no longer getting up on cold nights to keep the fire stoked, plus plumbing could be used in the winter. A sidewalk around the house and a gravel driveway means not walking through mud and dirt every time you enter or leave the home. The sidewalk even gives Thea and Chaia a place to learn to ride their bikes. One of the biggest benefits Ms. Crittenden mentions is time -- time to sit back and enjoy life for a change.

Community-Wide Impact With Manufactured Home Park Cooperatives

PathStone’s commitment to manufactured home residents does not end with energy improvements and home replacements. PathStone helps residents of manufactured home parks buy and manage their properties. Continued on Page 8

Ground Broken On Storm Recovery Project

The official ground-breaking for the Owego Village Gardens project in Tioga County took place on December 10th. The 62 unit rental project for seniors is being developed in part with funding from the Governors Office of Storm Recovery. Owego was devastated by flooding following Hurricane Irene and Tropical Storm Lee in 2011. Over 2,000 apartments and homes in the vicinity of the project were damaged by the 2011 flooding.

In addition to the $6.8 million in CDBG financing provided by GOSR, the project is financed by a $7 million mortgage through the NYS Housing Finance Agency, $270,000 in Low Income Housing Tax Credits, and $170,000 in State Low Income Credits. The building has been designed to be green and energy-efficient, as well as having flood-proofing and wind-resistant design features. The project is part of an 85 acre redevelopment site being administered by the Tioga County Industrial Development Agency.

Parks as affordable housing cooperatives. To date, PathStone has facilitated the resident purchase of 7 parks providing long term affordable housing to nearly 550 households.

When a park becomes available for purchase, PathStone staff initially determines if it is financially feasible to convert the park from private for-profit ownership to not-for-profit cooperative ownership. If initial feasibility appears workable, all residents are invited to informational meetings to learn about co-op conversion and to have an opportunity to join a new resident corporation. If a majority of residents wish to proceed, a resident board is elected. With the aid of PathStone’s technical assistance, the board and a majority of the homeowners living in the park determine if the community should be, or could be converted to a cooperative. If it is decided to pursue a resident purchase, a purchase offer is submitted to the current owner. If the offer is accepted, the resident board has approximately ninety days to review due diligence reports (property conditions, environmental, appraisal); create acquisition and first year operating budgets; and apply for and receive financing commitments. Budgets are developed based on the purchase price, current lot rents, vacancy rate, condition of infrastructure systems (i.e., water, sewer/septic, roads), and identification of deferred maintenance items. A capital improvement plan is developed for immediate and future repairs. Together with the asking price, these numbers are closely scrutinized to evaluate whether the community will be affordable to homeowners. If the numbers work, funding for the park is obtained from a variety of sources including ROC USA, the NYS Housing Finance Agency and Community Preservation Corporation.

Once a park becomes a resident owned community, the day-to-day operations are handled by a management company under the direction of the board. The board is comprised of homeowners elected by other resident homeowners. The board directs the creation of long-term operating goals, capital improvement planning, and provides the overall leadership of the community. Technical assistance is provided by PathStone staff for ten years, the length of the financing. For more information regarding Manufactured Home Co-op Program, please contact Andrea Miller at amiller@pathstone.org.
