The state budget negotiation season is in full swing and the Capitol is a very busy place. It is a critical time for all of us to reach out to our legislators and remind them of the importance in investing in the state’s housing stock, and in the delivery system that we have in place for ensuring that the precious housing dollars coming into the state are efficiently spent.

Last year, the legislature added funds to the Executive Budget as proposed for the Preservation Program. The Governor has proposed the same funding for preservation as he did last year, and so without a legislative add, the RPC/NPC funding will actually suffer a cut in the next Fiscal Year.

This year’s budget appears to offer great opportunities, thanks to the windfall received by the state in the JP Morgan Chase settlement. The settlement requires the proceeds be directed to affordable housing and community development programs to redress the foreclosure and other problems created by the recent housing crisis, and to assist families that were displaced thanks to lending practices during that period.

However, the JP Morgan Chase settlement is being viewed by many as the solution to a number of the state’s other housing challenges. The resources proposed are hardly enough, though, when compared to the magnitude of the housing problems found across the state. This one-shot windfall could be creatively used to invest in the future of the state, by improving rural infrastructure, capitalizing a real housing trust fund, or a significant revolving loan fund pool. Of course, increasing the amount of capital available in the state’s current housing programs will enable local housing agencies to make a serious dent in the existing problems.

This also raises the issue of capacity, both within the state agencies administering housing programs, and in our local communities. After so many years of declining federal and state investment in housing and community development, we have lost a great deal of expertise through attrition. One-shot funds could be made available to help non-profit and municipal and State agencies to rebuild staff capacity to increase production capability and develop new program activities to respond to new dynamics in local real estate markets.

NYS Rural Advocates is turning up the lobbying activity this month to make sure that the needs of rural New York are not lost in the clamor for the settlement funds.

The Advocates are convening in Albany starting on March 2nd. The push to contact Assembly representatives and state Senators on the 2nd, 3rd, or 4th of the month will help generate buzz at this critical time.

Even if you have never reached out to your legislators before, this is an especially important time to do so. You can visit your legislator in their Albany or district offices, or call, or email them with your concerns about the budget. Legislators often count how many calls or letters they receive on an issue, so every contact you can make will help. Rural Advocates can help you to reach out. Please also provide feedback from your conversations with your legislators. The Rural Advocates can be reached at ruraladvocates@gmail.com. This is not the year to remain silent about the resources your community needs.
CAPER Available For Review

NYS HCR has published the 2014 CAPER in draft form for public review and comment. The Consolidated Annual Performance and Evaluation Report summarizes state activities under the CDBG, HOME, ESG and HOPWA programs. Comments are due by March 4th. The draft report is available at www.nyshcr.org/AboutUs/Publications/2014-CAPER-Published-for-Public-Comment.pdf.

Main St. Forum

The NY Main Street Alliance is sponsoring a Main Street Forum at the NY Institute of Technology on Thursday, March 5th at 16 W. 61st Street in Manhattan. The forum will take place in the 11th floor auditorium. Speakers include Crystal Loffler, NYS Main St. Director, Larisa Ortiz, NYC Planning Commissioner, and Michael Swarting, Director of Urban and Regional Design at NYIT.

This one day event will offer informative sessions on urban design, architecture, and downtown revitalization. Registration is $45 and pre-registration is required. To RSVP, please email nymainstreetalliance@gmail.com or call (845) 423-7114.

Save The Date!

HUD Buffalo’s next Rehab Rap training for Rehabilitation Coordinators will take place on March 18th. The topic will be Minimizing Change Orders. The session will cover the need for good initial inspections; comprehensive work write ups & specs; RFPs/Bids and communication with homeowners. Change orders can dramatically complicate the administration of housing rehab programs, and in most cases can be avoided with thorough inspections and careful crafting of work writeups and development of specifications. This session is a must-attend for Rehab Coordinator staff.

Federal and U.S. military employees can support the Rural Housing Coalition through the annual Combined Federal Campaign (CFC). If you are a federal government or military employee and would like to donate through the CFC, please enter CFC code #9614 on your pledge card during the next fund drive.
Water/Wastewater Loan Application Window Open

USDA has issued a NOFA for the water and wastewater revolving loan program. Applications are due by April 13th.

The Revolving Fund Program (RFP) has been established to assist communities with water or wastewater systems. Qualified private, non-profit organizations, who are selected for funding, will receive RFP grant funds to establish a lending program for eligible entities. Eligible entities for the revolving loan fund will be the same entities eligible to obtain a loan, loan guarantee, or grant from the Water and Waste Disposal loan and grant programs administered by RUS, under 7 U.S.C.1926(a)(1) and (2).

As grant recipients, the non-profit organizations will set up a revolving loan fund to provide loans to finance predevelopment costs of water or wastewater projects, or short-term small capital projects not part of the regular operation and maintenance of current water and wastewater systems. The amount of financing to an eligible entity shall not exceed $100,000.00 and shall be repaid in a term not to exceed 10 years. The rate shall be determined in the approved grant work plan.

NHTF Rules Released

In February, HUD released new rules for the National Housing Trust Fund, which was created by Congress in the Housing and Economic Recovery Act of 2008 (HERA) to finance the construction, operation, and preservation of affordable housing for our nation’s most vulnerable families.

HUD referred to these changes as “Interim Rules” because the Department will reconsider provisions once the initial round of funding is made available. This could be as early as January, 2016.

While HERA directs NHTF monies to be distributed to each state using a needs-based formula, the Interim Rule provides further details on what factors will be considered. Unfortunately, the Interim Rule does not provide a minimum allocation for rural housing and does not adopt a broader definition of “rural.”

According to the Interim Rule, some commenters recommended that the Department provide an adequate allocation of NHTF resources to rural areas. In response, HUD argued that the statute grants authority to each state to create a consolidated plan by assessing the state’s housing needs and that each plan must describe priority housing areas, including rural housing. The Interim Rule also defines “rural” as all areas outside of a Metropolitan Statistical Area (MSA), even though half of all rural residents live in communities within MSAs.

Navigating New York’s Brownfield Funding Resources

A workshop on Brownfield Funding resources will be held on March 18th Workshop in Rochester, NY.

The session will cover funding and managing projects to redevelop previously-used sites, including brownfields, into housing, parks, trails, and job-creating businesses. This free, half-day workshop is designed for local governments, economic and community development departments, councils of government, nonprofits, and any other organizations interested in sustainable development. The workshop brings together each of the major providers of funding for environmentally-challenged property to discuss eligibility requirements, application procedures, and best practices.

Federal and state experts and seasoned brownfield redevelopment practitioners will be on-hand to discuss leveraging and layering state and federal funding sources, and to give you the advice you need to move your project forward.

The workshop will be held on Wednesday, March 18th, from 1:00 PM - 5:00 PM at the Staybridge Suites, 1000 Genesee Street, Rochester, NY 14611. Early registration is recommended. To register, visit http://cclr.org/civicrm/event/info?reset=1&id=163&utm_medium=email&utm_campaign=Meet+Your+Federal%26+State+Brownfield+...&utm_source=YMLP&utm_term=Register.

Main Street Boot Camp Coming To Margaretville

The M-ARK Project and NYS HCR will bring a regional Main Street Boot Camp to the Catskills on March 23rd and 24th. The first day of Boot Camp will feature a series of workshops on Main Street revitalization theory. Day Two will cover regional issues focussed on the revitalization of downtowns in the area. To register, call (845) 586-3500.
Non-profit Helps Increase Rural Multifamily Affordable Housing Stock

It comes as no surprise to those working in the affordable housing arena that people in rural America struggle to find safe, affordable housing. There are only a handful of government programs for building and rehabilitating properties and the money available continues to shrink, leaving housing agencies, particularly those serving rural areas, with a need to be creative.

When an East Coast housing agency wanted to expand its rural Multi-family Affordable Housing program, it found itself limited by its balance sheet. They were looking for a capital partner. One of the transactions with which it needed help was a mixed income development affordable housing apartment project with 120 units. The project consisted of 61 affordable rental units – 33 for households under 50% AMI, 13 for under 60% AMI and the balance untargeted- and 44 ownership units. The project has a future phase with 15 affordable units planned.

While the rental units were successful, the ownership units were impacted by poor market conditions in 2008 and 2009. The structure of the construction loan was complicated and tied both the rental development and the for-sale units into one development loan. The development team was unable to satisfy their obligations on the construction financing and the lender wanted out.

The housing agency was looking for a $2.1 million loan to refinance the portion of the debt associated with the rental units thus preserving the affordable rental development. With that issue resolved the development team would be able to work with the original lender to finish the for-sale portion of the development.

The housing agency learned about Community Reinvestment Fund, USA (CRF), a national non-profit and certified Community Development Financial Institution (CDFI) that is a leader in bringing capital to underserved rural and urban communities. CRF has helped provide more than $300 million in funding for multi-family affordable housing since 1989.

“CRF looked at the analysis from the housing agency and conducted their own due diligence. Despite the failure of the for-sale units, the rental portion of the property was managed by a well-respected, experienced organization and the occupancy rate was 98.5% over the past four years. In addition, CRF was able to mitigate the risk by working with the housing agency to structure a federally guaranteed loan under the 542 (c) program administered by the Federal Housing Agency. CRF was able to provide loan terms that included a fixed interest rate and a 30-year fully amortizing loan. (loans can amortize up to 40 years).

“This is a good example of a partnership that respects the housing agency’s local knowledge with CRF’s national resources,” says Schwarz. “And, the local community comes out the winner!”

CRF’s suite of multi-family affordable housing products include:
- LIHTC mortgages - for forward commitments, new and seasoned loans
- Risk share 542b/c - for new originations and forward commitments
- Naturally affordable housing – new originations.

Federal Flood Risk Management Standard Public Comments Sought

On January 30, 2015, President Obama signed Executive Order 13690: Establishing a Federal Flood Risk Management Standard and a Process for Further Soliciting and Considering Stakeholder Input requiring federal agencies to take the appropriate actions to reduce risk to federal investments, specifically to “update their flood-risk reduction standards.” The Executive Order was released with Draft Implementing Guidelines and a document describing the Federal Flood Risk Management Standard (FFRMS) in more detail.

Ogdensburg Gets Street Policies Nod

The City of Ogdensburg, in St. Lawrence County was recently rated as Number 1 nationally in the 2014 analysis of the best complete streets policies by Smart Growth America.

Complete streets are intended to assist in the revitalization of communities through traffic improvements that make it safer for pedestrians, cyclists, autos and truck traffic to coexist. In 2014, 70 communities across the country adopted policies for complete streets.

Ogdensburg was up against some tough competition, including Austin, Texas (tied for 3rd place), Troy, New York (2nd), and Los Angeles (tied for 10th).

Smart Growth America notes that over the years that they have been evaluating the policies going into effect, they have seen a significant improvement in the quality and sophistication of the enacted policies. For more information, visit www.smartgrowthamerica.org/complete-streets-2014-analysis.

HUD Issues Guidance On Home Lending

On February 23rd, HUD issued guidance on home lending for LGBT persons. The guidance also covers appropriate placement of transgender persons in shelters. The Equal Access Rule ensures that housing across HUD programs is open to all eligible individuals regardless of actual or perceived sexual orientation, gender identity or marital status. The guidance addresses appropriate placement of transgender individuals in single sex facilities, but it also guides providers on how best to address privacy and safety concerns within the facilities in ways that do not segregate or isolate transgender individuals. The guidance can be found at: http://portal.hud.gov/hudportal/HUD?src=/press/press_releases_media_advisories/2015/HUDNo_15-023.
